Nippon Maru Comes and Goes With New Commander

With the arrival of the Toyo Kisen Kaisha liner Nippon Maru from the Orient yesterday afternoon was learned the deserved promotion which has been accorded Chief Officer H. S. Smith, who formerly was connected with the liner America Maru, which vessel has been making voyages between Hongkong, Japan ports and South and Central America by the way of Honolulu.

It's Captain Smith now. The popular chief officer of the America was transferred to the Nippon as commander upon the arrival of the San Francisco boat at Yokohama.

Captain A. G. Stevens, the former commander of the Nippon Maru, is said to remain in the Far East for the time being. It is rumored that Stevens may be given the command of one of the larger Toyo Kisen Kaisha liners within a short time.

Five hundred tons of Oriental freight was left at Honolulu by the Nippon Maru, which departed for San Francisco at noon today. The vessel brought a half dozen saloon passengers. The through list was a very small one.

The first six days out from Yokohama the weather proved very rough and disagreeable. The staunch Nippon Maru ploughed through the heavy seas and strong gales without great mishap. The vessel's machinery, however, has been giving considerable trouble during the present voyage and one engine will receive repairs before leaving the coast for the East.

In the specie tanks of the steamer nearly sixty thousand Mexican dollars are being taken to San Francisco for recoinage.

Two Japanese mail agents are making their initial trip by the Nippon Maru. They have to do with the sorting of the United States mail carried in transit by the vessel. It is understood that the other liners in the T. K. K. service will also carry the representatives of the Imperial Japanese post.

Mr. and Mrs. Fitzherbert Bullen are well known people of the Canadian Northwest. Mr. Bullen is connected with the marine department of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The Bullens will remain over at Honolulu.

A Ghella is an engineer connected with the Hankow-Peking Railroad and is making a business trip to Europe.

MAX SChLEMMER AND ONE OF HIS JAPANESE AGENTS.

"King Max" Schlemmer, late of Laysan Island, was brought into the Judiciary building this morning as a prisoner, a bench warrant having been issued for his arrest by United States Judge Robertson on an indictment returned against Schlemmer by the Federal Grand Jury. Schlemmer is indicted upon three counts on a charge of violation of the United States immigration laws, the accusation growing out of his bringing the Japanese poachers to Laysan Island, which is Territory of the United States.

The twenty-three Japanese who were captured by the revenue cutter Thetis while engaged in bird poaching at Laysan are held as witnesses against Schlemmer and will be used in the prosecution.

Auto Liquor Seller Under Heavy Bond

A hearing was held this morning before United States Commissioner Judd in the cases of White and Wilson, the two chauffeurs who are under arrest by the Federal authorities, charged with selling liquor to the soldiers at Leilehua.

White's case was concluded and he was committed to trial in the United States District Court with bonds fixed at $5,000 which were furnished. Wilson's case was not concluded and he will have a further hearing before the United States Commissioner.

A number of soldiers of the Fifth Cavalry were called as witnesses by United States District Attorney Brooks this morning and they all testified to purchasing liquor at Leilehua on January 10th last when they received their pay for the preceding month. One of the soldiers identified White as the chauffeur from whom he secured a bottle of whiskey for $2.00 but the other witnesses stated that they were quite unable to identify the vendors of the whiskey from the automobile.

They were all sure, however, that an automobile arrived there during the January payday and that it had John Barleycorn as its only passenger and that the passenger was distributed among the soldiers at a rate ranging from $1.50 to $2.00 per bottle.

Complete Speaker's Upset

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 21.—Complete revolution of the methods of doing business in the House of Representatives is pending as a result of the downfall of the regular Republican through the passage of the Norris resolution.

It is now proposed to create a House committee that shall be vested with the duty of appointing all committee, this committee to act instead of the Speaker, as is now the rule. This committee is also to have jurisdiction over conference reports and appropriation bills.

Pittsburg Graft High Finance

PITTSBURG, Pa., Mar. 21.—A tremendous sensation was sprung today in the graft prosecution that is being carried on by the city attorney's office, when former Councilman Klein, who has been convicted of graft, laid bare the whole grafting scheme in its relation to the financial institutions of the city.

Klein revealed a situation that shows there was wholesale bribery of the city council by the banks of the city competing for the privilege and favor of being depositaries for the city funds. Although many prominent citizens have been involved in the proceedings thus far, it is anticipated that the list will increase when all the facts of Klein's confession are developed.

HILO RAILWAY'S STOCK ON MARKET

The slump they were all hoping for, but no one can give a good reason for, was in evidence on the Stock Exchange this morning. Quotations on all the stocks shaded down with the one exception of Hutchinson, which held strong at $9 on a session sale.

Honolulu went through the curious performance of selling in a fifty-share lot on the board at 22.375 and then in ten and five-share lots at 22.25. Walalua sold at 133, Oahu at 37.75, Pioneer at 237, Olan at 6.875, McBryde at 7, and Paauhau at 29.625.

Hilo Railway common stock was very much in evidence at 13.50. About fifteen hundred shares sold at this figure, and the bid remains the same on the stock sheet. These sales presumably represent the bonus of stock that was given the purchasers of Hilo Railway bonds.

As is always the case, the activity of the market has increased as the price decreases. There are always investors ready to take up the average stocks at reduced prices.

The crowd is, curiously enough, waiting for a change in the price of sugar. Whether it goes down or up will make little difference; they want a change.

NEXT COUNT GIVEN IN WEDNESDAY'S PAPER

Another count in the Bulletin's Voting Contest will be made tomorrow evening. It was the intention to postpone the next count until later in the week, but so many votes came in today that it seems necessary to make an earlier count. The result of the next count will be published Wednesday evening. Votes intended for the count tomorrow should be in the Bulletin ballot box before 4 p. m.

Raise Circuit Judges to $4,000

(Special Bulletin Cable)

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Hawaii's Governor will have a salary of $10,000 a year if the recommendation of the House Committee on Territories is allowed by Congress.

A favorable report was presented from the Committee on Territories this forenoon on the Senate bill to amend the Organic Act of the Territory of Hawaii.

Under the bill as it goes to the House the sale of public lands of the Territory is prohibited except it be for homesteads or house lots, and twenty-five applications makes it mandatory for the public lands to be opened for sale in any district.

The House bill increases the salary of the Circuit Judges from $3,500 as passed by the Senate to $4,000, and places the salary of the Governor at $10,000.

Public Land Sale Brings Total of $10,490

Many Bidders Present During Auction By Commissioner Campbell at Noon —McCandless Has Protest

Marston Campbell, Superintendent of Public Works and Commissioner of Public Lands, sold a number of pieces of public lands at auction at noon today.

The sale was rather interesting, there being many land dealers present, who did their best to outbid each other. Prominent among them was Link McCandless, the Democratic candidate for Delegate to Congress.

Before the sale was commenced McCandless entered a protest against the sale of some of the lands. He claimed they were not in accordance with his survey map which was prepared by a reliable surveyor. Campbell paid no attention of the authority notice.

The properties sold are principally agricultural and pasture lands. They are located in Koolau and other outside districts.

Following is the list of property together with the names of the purchasers who were either present themselves, or represented by their agents.

Lot 3a, Paunahua containing an area of 40 acres, more or less, sold to J. Campbell for $1175.
Lot 5, Keaso, containing an area of 30 acres, sold to J. E. Steward for $250.
Lot 6, Keaso, containing an area of 17 acres, sold to A. V. Gear for $805.
Lot 7, Keaso containing an area of 70 acres, sold to E. J. Abrahamson for $650.
Lot 8, Keaso, containing an area of 25 acres, sold to Mrs. C. A. Peterson for $2050.
Lot 9, Keaso, containing an area of 10 acres, sold to H. A. Juen for $600.
Lot 10, Lualualei, containing an area of 12.04 acres, sold to Mrs. L. St. John Gilbert for $4250, and lot 17, containing an area of 32.96 acres, sold to Mrs. John K. Notley, F. J. Testa, bidding for her.

Among those present were Charles Changworth, Link McCandless, H. M. Kaniko, A. V. Gear, F. J. Testa, H. A. Juen, Jailer Asch, St. John Gilbert and several others.

At the close of the sale McCandless remarked that the poor man has no show whatever to get land, under the methods which are adopted by the government.

45 Killed In Train Horror

SNELLSBURG, Iowa, Mar. 21.—Forty-five passengers were killed outright here today and sixty more were injured in a frightful wreck on the Rock Island road. Two express trains heavily laden with passengers came together with fearful effect. It is doubtful if the final list of dead and dying will come within the figures given out at the beginning of the rescue work.

TOM QUINN FINED FOR DAVIS SMASH

Judge Andrade Gives Decision In Auto Case

This morning at the police court Judge Andrade gave his decision in the Quinn-Davis automobile case. Quinn was fined $50 and costs, and his attorney, J. A. Magoon, at once appealed the case.

The judge said that he had had considerable difficulty in deciding the case, as the evidence of one side absolutely contradicted the other. However, to enable himself to come to a decision on the matter, the judge in his own mind put aside all the evidence for the prosecution and considered the circumstances surrounding the accident. The evidence showed that Lloyd, who was coming along in a hack just as Quinn's machine approached, "got ready to jump out of the rig; he certainly was frightened at something. Then Gilbert and Hair also saw some cause for excitement as Quinn's automobile came along; Davis, too, was probably scared, and there was no doubt in the judge's mind that the real cause of Davis' car crashing into Levy's window was the commotion caused by Quinn's driving.

Taking all the circumstances into consideration, the judge found Quinn guilty and fined him accordingly. Whether the Quinn machine hit the Davis car or not, the judge could not say. One of the tires on Quinn's car may have struck one of Davis' and thus forced his machine through the window. On the other hand, the automobiles may not have collided at all, but the fact remained, in the judge's opinion, that Quinn was the cause of the accident. Attorney Lightfoot appeared for the prosecution, and Clem Quinn, with Magoon, conducted the defense.

which, drawn by a maddened street car and finally crashed through a billiard parlor door and landed on the pool table. It being Sunday, there were no players of pool, and the horse, after looking around the place, emerged just as Police Officer Arthur Kahanamoku arrived on the scene. The officer grabbed the animal and held him till the owner, a Chinese, turned up.

The hack driver at once agreed to pay for all the damage done to the billiard parlor, and the Japanese proprietor was perfectly satisfied to let the matter go at that.

The horse was not much injured. A few scratches and small cuts were all the damage done to the steed. There were several narrow escapes as the horse crossed the sidewalk, but the people all managed to get away in time to allow the animal the right of way into the billiard room.
